Explore

In museums and galleries, there are often small labels next to the objects, artefacts and artworks.

These are used to give visitors more information about each item. Try creating your own labels for items around your home.

Information on your labels might include:

- the era it comes from or when it was created;
- where it comes from;
- who made it;
- why it is important.

Maybe you could take someone on a virtual tour of your museum or gallery items, so they can explore your collections.

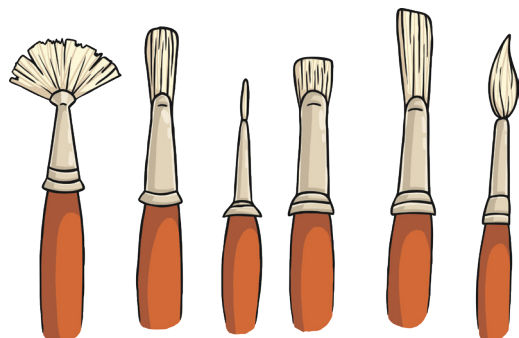

Investigate

As well as museums, art galleries are offering virtual tours too.

Do you have a favourite artist?

Research famous artists using the Internet or these Artist Fact Sheets. Try creating a piece of artwork in the style of your favourite artist.

Write

The museums in this article are all creating exhibits to capture our life at the moment. When people gather items like this, it is sometimes called a time capsule.

You can create your own time capsule at home by writing down what is important to you now. You may like to use a Time Capsule Writing Frame.
